Van Valkenburgh: Housing Delayed by Two Obstacles

Mayor's Secretary Says Verbal Application Made to Federal Government in May, Doesn't Know Date

Two obstacles are delaying the project to relieve the housing shortage in the city, it was said today by W. A. Van Valkenburgh, of the Kingston Housing Committee, who was appointed to serve several months ago by Mayor W. F. Edelmuith.

The first is an effort to obtain the consent of the Lawton heirs for permission to use a part of Lawton Park on which to erect the 100-housing unit, and the other the delay of the federal government in releasing the army barracks to be used.

Says Verbal Bid Made

Robert L. Rhinehart, secretary to the mayor, who is also acting as secretary to the housing committee, said that a verbal request for the 100-housing units had been made early in May to Frederick L. Brooks of the federal government when he was in Kingston.

Mr. Brooks was also here in March meeting with the housing committee.

Mr. Rhinehart said he had no record of the exact date on which the verbal request was made.

Has Not Had Consent

Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig for the past three months has been making an effort to obtain the necessary permission for the use of Lawton Park. He said this morning that he has been unable to obtain that consent.

The park was deeded to the city for use as a public park, he said, and before it can be used as a site for the housing units permission from the Lawton heirs is necessary. He said that the city had asked for consent to use part of the park grounds for a period not to exceed five years.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh said that application had been made to the federal government for the release of the army barracks early in May, and until the government released the barracks and consent was obtained to erect them in Lawton Park the housing question was at a stalemate.

The Kingston Housing Committee on Wednesday afternoon, March 27, met with Frederick L. Brooks, a representative of the New York State Housing Commission. This meeting, it was announced had been held at the request of Mayor Edelmuith.

Planned Bid from State

It was also stated the day following the conference that an application was being made to the State Housing Commission for 100 housing units.

These units will consist of army barracks.

New York Leads National Reconversion, Dewey Says

Watertown, N. Y., June 15 (AP)—New York state is leading the nation in postwar reconversion and can confidently look forward to increasing prosperity, Governor Dewey declared today in a speech that set the tone of his campaign for re-election.

In an address prepared for delivery at a joint luncheon meeting of Watertown Service Clubs in which he gave his Republican administration credit for New York's position, the governor said: "Despite every handicap and obstacle toward speedy re-establishment of employment and peacetime production, the latest figures with respect to reconversion show that the State of New York is far in advance of the national average."

The state government is in "good order," Dewey reported, and because of its foresight, business in New York can look forward to an ever increasing upswing in employment and production.

Dewey, on the last lap of a three-day upstate tour that included visits to Utica and Rome where he lost in the 1944 presidential election, said his administration had solved two major problems:

Getting the state quickly into full war production after he took office January 1, 1943, and laying the groundwork for continuing "Our pre-eminent position in the nation after the war was over."

"When I became governor there were 500,000 people unemployed in our state despite a national manpower shortage," he said.

"Your administration rolled up its sleeves and went to work in obtaining increased war contracts for New York industry."

"As a result, within six months the state was wholly in the war effort and every crisis of industrial and agricultural production was successfully surmounted."

"To prepare for a sound peacetime economy, the governor said, the state had cut personal income and business taxes $122,000,000, amassed a half-billion dollar surplus and reduced the state's bonded debt by more than $108,000,000.

New York is ready to spend its surplus now in a vast highway construction program, rehabilitation of its institutions and expansion of conservation services, Dewey declared.

Reaction Is Favorable To Offer

Foreign Capitals Await Review of Policy Implications in U. S. Proposal

Scientists Approve

Americans Who Worked on Development Are in Favor

New York, June 15 (AP)—Favorable reaction was shaping up today for the principles of the United States' rigidly conditioned offer to scrap the atomic bomb monopoly in exchange for a guaranteed world front outlawing the weapons of mass destruction.

Foreign capitals, however, reserved official comment until the governments have thoroughly reviewed the drastic political implications of the plan laid before the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission yesterday by U. S. Delegate Bernard M. Baruch.

The first British press comment was favorable to the American plan and members of the U. S. Senate and atomic scientists gave it an enthusiastic reception.

Delegates to the 12-nation atomic commission, while praising Baruch's presentation as a moving and historic document, indicated they would have nothing to say about its substance before the commission assemblies again next Wednesday afternoon.

After listening solemnly to Baruch's proposal to establish an international atomic development authority but only after all the countries have met the iron-clad conditions laid down by the United States, the delegates dispatched his 4,500-word document to their home governments.

Provide for Abolition

These conditions provide for the abolition of the Big Five veto power in relation to the operation of the Atomic Development Authority (A.D.A.) as an all-powerful agency in its field, armed with unprecedented authority of search, seizure and punishment.

Baruch made it clear that the United States proposed to have guarantees meeting all the specified conditions before making the final bomb-disposal commitments in treaties which must be ratified by a two-thirds majority of the Senate and by the several governments in the United Nations.

If all the conditions are met, Baruch said, then the United States would destroy existing atomic bombs, would make no more and would give the A.D.A. "full information as to the know-how for the production of atomic energy."

Scientists Approve

Among the first voicing approval of the American plan were atomic scientists and members of the United States Senate.

A group of American scientists including Nobel prize winners Arthur H. Compton of Washington University and Harold H. Urey of University of Chicago—both of them wartime researchers on atomic energy—met immediately after Baruch's speech.

In a statement they said they were especially stirred by his "insistence on the supreme importance of the issue of international control of atomic energy to the survival of civilization." They praised the plan as "eminently sound and constructive."

The strongest endorsement came from Frederic Joliot-Curie, another Nobel prize winner and head of the French Scientific Advisory Group attending the commission meetings.

He told newsmen that if the United States plan is not accepted (Continued on Page Two)

Maritime Strike Is Canceled Minute Before Deadline; Los Angeles Area Is Affected by Tie-up Called by C.M.U. Boss

Kingston Is Chosen Definitely, Kurdt Says, for New Lab

Two Locations Are Being Considered: Back Building or New Structure

The city of Kingston yesterday was definitely selected as one of two new sites for poultry and cattle diagnostic laboratories planned for New York state, County Agricultural Agent Al Kurdt announced following a meeting with New York State Veterinary College representatives at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

Two locations are being considered, Kurdt said. One is the Back building at Hasbrouck and Foxhall avenue. The other would be a new structure built especially for laboratory purposes by Richard Passerini in the central part of the city.

Erection of such a structure would require a C.P.A. priority. Chamber of Commerce officials said such approval very likely would be granted under the $15,000 maximum for business and public buildings.

If the C.P.A. priority is granted, the new laboratory will be ready for occupancy within 60 days, Mr. Passerini assured the state representatives.

If C.P.A. priority is denied, improvements and alterations to the Back building will be started immediately.

Expert Attends Session

Yesterday's meeting was attended by Dr. P. E. Levine, poultry diagnosis expert, and Dr. H. G. Hodges, mastitis project director, of the State Veterinary College; Thomas Bohan, president of the Essex Chamber of Commerce; Pratt Boice and William A. Van Valkenburgh; Willis Myers, of Saugerties, representing the Farm Bureau director, County Agent Kurdt and Donald Williams, secretary of the Chamber.

Dr. Levine and Hodges inspected the proposed locations and said either would meet the requirements for the new laboratory.

Funds for two new state projects were voted at the recent session of the state legislature. The lab will employ five or six men, technicians and veterinarians engaged in poultry disease research work and dairy cattle diseases.

The Kingston office will serve the entire eastern section of New York state. The nearest poultry and cattle diagnosis project at present is the one at Farmingdale, Long Island.

Citizens Group Is Organized to Help Promote Kingston

Will Work With Chamber of Commerce for Betterment in Several Spheres

Organization of an independent citizens committee to promote the social, economic and industrial betterment of the city of Kingston was announced yesterday.

The group will be known as the "Committee of 100." Membership which will be by invitation only is limited to 100 persons.

Although announcing broad objectives for the new organizations, leader in the movement requested that their names be withheld for the time being.

The second meeting of the committee is scheduled on Friday, June 22.

Is Non-Political

An official spokesman told The Freeman that the group would be non-political in nature and would strive to complement in many respects the functions normally carried on by the Chamber of Commerce.

"This committee will in no sense of the word work in opposition to the Chamber of Commerce," the spokesman said. "Rather we will cooperate with them in any matter that affects the welfare of Kingston citizens."

Organizers of the committee—recruited from among some of Kingston's most prominent citizens—said they planned to embrace every element in the city in the full membership of the organization.

Select Group

New members will be carefully selected and added to the committee's roster at successive meetings. Candidates will be screened carefully for background and civic interest and must be approved by a majority vote of the membership.

The committee's spokesman said that several matters were discussed briefly at yesterday's initial meeting but an official program would not be drawn up until next week.

Picketing Plan Canceled on New York Waterfront

Seamen on Pacific Coast Are Ordered to Remain on Vessels; Boston Has Two-Hour Strike at Port

(By The Associated Press)

Most of the maritime unions in the nation's ports canceled strike plans today and scheduled meetings for ratification of last night's Washington agreement ending the C.I.O. maritime labor dispute.

But at the Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor, more than 5,000 seamen and waterfront workers were called out on strike at 12:01 (P.S.T.) and L. B. Thomas, local chairman of the Committee for Maritime Unity, instructed all National Maritime Union men to report for picket duty at 6 a. m. (E.D.T.).

It was estimated that 4,000 seamen walked off the majority of 308 American ships in the harbor before midnight.

In Boston, where 750 C.I.O. seafarers struck for two hours after the midnight deadline, the National Maritime Union ratified terms of the agreement and the men drifted back to their vessels.

Picketing of the Port of Philadelphia, which started at the midnight deadline, was ordered halted two hours later after receipt of official notification of the Washington settlement.

Senator Demands Peace First, Atom Secrets Afterward

Colorado Republican Sees Definite Link Between U. N. and Big Four; One Dissents

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Senator Milliken (R-Colo.) demanded today speedy Allied agreement on the long-blocked peace treaties of World War II before the United States moves to entrust any atomic secrets to international control.

Milliken saw a definite link between the future of the United Nations Atomic Commission in New York and the outcome of the renewed "Big Four" foreign ministers meeting at Paris, where a new effort is being made to end the stalemate on treaties.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.), Milliken's colleague on the Senate Atomic Committee, disagreed in a separate interview. He voiced the belief that atomic decisions reached at New York would have more bearing on future peace than agreements made in Paris.

Milliken, however, appeared to represent the majority trend of committee opinion at the moment. He told newsmen he and others of like views want to be certain that the world atomic control plan proposed by Bernard M. Baruch to the U. N. group yesterday is fully tested before the United States surrenders to other hands the know-how of atomic developments.

In another phase of atomic discussion, Senators Kuffman (D-Ohio) and Lucas (D-Ill.) told the Senate yesterday the forthcoming Bikini A-bomb experiment is creating the impression that the United States is not done with war. They argued unsuccessfully on this ground against a bill authorizing the use of the naval vessels to be bombed.

The Senate passed the measure on a voice vote and sent it back (Continued on Page Two)

Agreement Brings Peace to Shipping for First Time Since Last July

Triumph Hailed

Washington, June 15 (AP)—The shadow of a crippling maritime strike lifted from the nation's busy waterfronts today—the big tie-up canceled exactly one minute before it was to begin.

A hectic, nick-of-time settlement ended the prolonged and stormy labor dispute even as crews were quitting their ships and picket lines formed.

The agreement, which seven maritime unions hailed as a sweeping victory, saved the country from having a third major labor emergency piled on top of the coal and rail crises. And it heralded peace—at least temporarily—in the shipping industry for the first time since last July.

Because of the last-minute nature of the settlement some confusion prevailed in several American ports, as seamen and dock workers discussed ratification of the new wage-hour pact.

But an announcement by Harry Bridges and Joe Curran that it represented an "unprecedented" triumph for the unions was counted on to expedite approval by the rank-and-file and insure no important interruption in merchant marine operations.

"We'll keep 'em sailing," promised Curran, who is co-chairman with Bridges of the committee for maritime unity.

The break in the strike threat, which came last night at 11 p. m. (E.S.T.), after a long day of suspense and an evening of helter-skelter chaos at the Labor Department. It was then union leaders and employers began signing the documents that meant they had agreed at last.

Only 60 seconds later the strike deadline arrived in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other east coast ports.

While strike plans went into effect along some waterfronts before settlement news was received, the nation at large quickly learned the crisis had been surmounted. A long strike of C.I.O. dock workers, seamen, engineers and radio operators had been averted.

Chief Facts Emerge

Today these main facts emerged from the settlement of the most complex and confusing big labor dispute in recent years.

A powerful new labor alliance, the Committee for Maritime Unity (CMU), composed of seven unions claiming 214,000 members, had sailed successfully through its first test under the joint leadership of Bridges and Curran.

By threatening a disastrous strike it had won from the government and the private ship operators large wage increases and other concessions.

Not only that, but it served notice it will "come again" in September. Bridges agreed to the settlement only as far as September 30, and said his west coast longshoremen will seek still higher pay at that time. C.I.O. Radio Operators and Engineers also have contracts expiring September 30.

Meanwhile A.F.L. sailors—not represented in the CMU negotiations here—were seeking more pay in wage talks at San Francisco and New York.

Assistant Labor Secretary John Gibson, when asked how last night's settlement would affect the A.F.L. men, replied merely: "They are negotiating on both coasts now. I assume they will work out an agreement."

Agreements Are Given

The newly-won C.M.U. agreements give seamen:

A wage increase of $17.50 a month, retroactive to April 1, and a dollar an hour overtime pay for Sunday work at sea and for Saturday and Sunday work in port, effective today.

The Labor Department estimated that all told, a seaman's monthly pay check will rise about $50. Frank J. Taylor, chairman of the negotiating committee for 39 eastern shipping companies, estimated that this was a 30 per cent increase on the average.

Most seamen work a 56-hour week at sea and 44 hours in port. They will continue this schedule but will be paid overtime after 48 hours at sea and 40 in port.

Bridges' C.I.O. Longshoremen got an increase of 22 cents an hour, which was recommended May 13 by a fact-finding board. Bridges wanted 35 cents originally, and 10¢ cut would almost end the end for 23 cents. The 22-cent raise is recommended on Page Two

Civil Service Board Plans Police 'Exams' on July 9

Kingston's Municipal Civil Service Board has announced that promotional examinations for the positions of chief of police, police captain, police lieutenants and police sergeants would be held on July 9, at a place to be designated by the commission.

The civil service board yesterday announced that on July 8 it would hold examinations for the purpose of making up an eligible list from which the police department could fill the five vacancies on the police force. The examination for patrolmen will be held in the Kingston High School, and applicants may obtain application blanks from either the city clerk or members of the board.

The promotional examinations will be confined to the membership of the police department. According to the notices posted on the bulletin board in police headquarters the job of chief pays from $3,360 to $3,610; captain, $2,970 to $3,160; lieutenants from $2,460 to $2,910, and sergeants from $2,340 to $2,620.

The promotional examinations are held as the result of Lieut. Ernest A. Boss being appointed temporary chief to fill the vacancy of Chief Charles Phinney, while Lieut. Fred C. Stoudt is elevated to the post of captain; Sergeants Raymond Van Buren and William J. Leonard to lieutenants, while Patrolmen William Krum and Robert Murphy were appointed sergeants.

Was Freeman Employee for 30 Years

Nicholas T. Huber of 110 Newkirk avenue, a linotype operator, terminated 30 years of service with The Freeman Publishing Company, Friday, to accept a position with the Whitman Publishing Company of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Huber's services were sought because of his experience in the particular type of work done by the Poughkeepsie firm.

Prior to leaving yesterday, he had farewell personally to each of the 60 odd employees of The Freeman, and officials of the company, who wish him well in his new position.

Mr. Huber started at The Freeman as an office boy, and served in the various printing departments before becoming a linotype operator. He specialized on setting advertisements and newspaper headlines.

He was a prominent member of The Freeman Social Club and in former years pitched for the firm's team in the Kingston City Baseball League.

Mr. Huber at one time was one of the outstanding pitchers in this vicinity, having played with the Gully All Stars, Blue Sox A. C. and Napanoch.

British Plan Rejected For Hindu-Moslem Parity

New Delhi, June 15 (AP)—Reliable sources said today that the Congress Party had rejected the British plan for Hindu-Moslem parity in the proposed interim Indian government, but the British Cabinet Mission was reported to be still hopeful of effecting a compromise.

Members of the cabinet delegation, here to help bring independence to India, met this morning with the viceroy, Lord Wavell. The subjects of discussion were not disclosed, but observers speculated they included new supplementary proposals and that the conference had been in contact with Prime Minister Attlee in London.

"We are likely to know what the position is after lunch," a cabinet attaché said.

The position of the Congress Party's working committee, although not announced formally, was understood to have been given the viceroy in a letter from Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, party president, rejecting both party for Moslems and caste Hindus and the compulsory grouping of provinces during the transition period leading to Indian independence.

Officers Say Bigger Air Force Indicated

Frankfurt, June 15 (AP)—Officers in Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters commented unofficially today that if atomic energy is to be internationally controlled—as proposed by Bernard M. Baruch yesterday—the United States "unquestionably" would have to increase its air and ground forces in Europe.

These officers suggested that American superiority of the atomic field made it possible to maintain fewer armed forces abroad at present than otherwise might be necessary.

Bowles Avoids Talk On Gubernatorial Issue

Old Saybrook, Conn., June 15 (AP)—The role of Chester Bowles in Connecticut's fall elections remained uncertain today after the first meeting of the national economic stabilizer with Democratic leaders in his home state.

Bowles, who has been widely mentioned as a possible candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket, met members of the party's state central committee at a cocktail party and dinner here last night, but left unanswered the question of whether he was willing to run.

The economic stabilizer, who had declined to attend the meeting as a potential candidate but accepted an invitation to appear as a spokesman for the Truman administration, devoted most of his address to the OPA and its difficulties in congress.

State Chairman John A. McGuire had originally called the meeting to give committee members a chance to look over four men who have figured in speculation about candidates.

With Bowles shunning the role of candidate and two others unable to appear, Lieutenant Governor Wilbert Snow was the only one present as a potential seeker for a top place on the ticket.

Invitations also had been sent to Thomas J. Dodd of Lebanon, in Nuernberg as a prosecutor at the criminals trial, and Joseph M. Tione of New Haven, a federal labor conciliator, who said he had a previous engagement.

5 Million Pounds of Canned Food Shipped

Nearly five million pounds of canned food has been shipped to starving people of Europe and the Far East by War Relief Services—National Catholic Welfare Conference from warehouses in New York, it was announced Friday.

Some 15,000 parishes in the United States participated in the campaign which opened May 12 in response to the pleas by Pope Pius XII, President Truman, Herbert Hoover and UNRRA Director Fiorello H. LaGuardia. Preliminary reports from diocesan campaign directors throughout the nation indicate that 30,000,000 cans of food were donated in the drive which has just concluded.

Shipments are being made to Europe and the Far East as rapidly as ships become available.

The fire was extinguished after considerable damage was done to the car.

tractive to last October 1, this cash to be paid no later than next October 31.

Curran, Bridges, and the other union heads recommended the settlements to their members. C.I.O. President Philip Murray joined them in urging the membership to accept, saying the agreements were "a momentous victory." Murray took an important role in advising the C.M.U. leaders to accept the terms hammered out in the 17 days of negotiations here.

Terms Ordered Into Effect

The War Shipping Administration, which stepped in and wrote the final settlement as the strike seemed imminent, ordered the terms put into effect on ships owned by the government and operated by shipping agents.

That means 80 per cent of the merchant fleet. Taylor of the eastern ship operators said in a statement that "it is obvious that the settlement by the government cannot help but affect all privately-owned ships." He meant the companies will have to adopt the new conditions on their own ships as well as those owned by the government, or else go without crews.

He said "the companies have grave misgivings as to the future of the American Merchant Marine." He declared the U. S. Treasury can doubtless bear the added expense, but privately-owned ships were put under a "staggering handicap."

War Shipping Administrator Granville Conway said at a news conference he "didn't think the added expense would drive the American Merchant Marine off the seas," but "without any question as they are bound to do competition is going to be very keen and this certainly won't do the merchant marine any good."

Conway said he ordered the concessions to the unions because it was apparent they would strike otherwise, and "it seemed to me we simply could not have a strike for that difference."

The Wage Stabilization Board Studied the New Terms All Day Yesterday, and Early This Morning Announced Its Approval of the Wage Increases for Longshoremen and for Crews of Government-Owned Ships. It Will Rule Separately on the Increases Involving Privately-Owned Ships Later.

Corporal Oldfield, 25, was operating the cycle southerly when he lost control and the cycle overturned. Howard Oldfield was treated for abrasions about the head, hands and shoulder and the operator of the machine suffered lacerations of the face, head and abrasions of the knee as well as concussion and a possible fracture of the skull. He was taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, and treated. His condition was reported as good today. Corporal Metzger made an investigation.

Heaviest Crop of Irish Potatoes in June, July

Washington, June 15 (AP)—There'll be more Irish "laters" in June and July than this country ever had before.

By September the U. S. Department of Agriculture says approximately 75,000,000 bushels of Irish potatoes will be going to markets all over the country.

But you may not be able to buy any. Some localities will suffer potato shortages from time to time, the Washington experts suggested, because of the possibility of the car shortages, ice scarcity and summer showers holding up the harvest.

California accounts for about 30,000,000 bushels, which are shipped under refrigeration to prevent spoilage.

But, potatoes from the south-east are shipped without refrigeration except in emergencies and so must move to market fast to prevent loss.

Easy Lighting For Home Shots

Many a camera owner would feel happier about shooting portraits at home with artificial light if he knew a simple answer to that awkward question: "Where do I put the lights?"

After all, home is the place where most of the year-round photographic opportunities occur—pets, children, relations, family groups—and the amateur, without pretending to be a Bacharach in the portrait field, wants to make the most of his opportunities.

He knows that a good portrait is more than a good likeness. He wants his to have that plus quality, that extra spark of composition, pose or lighting. Of these, lighting is his greatest bug-a-boo with amateur home equipment.

Lighting Simplified

The astonishing thing is that lighting can be simple. (It can be difficult, too, but we won't go into that.) Using the new photo flood lamps with built-in reflectors which can be swung into position, the sure to take off the shade, homemade lighting can be set up easily for any portrait shot.

Take these few simple rules. Camera and subject are set up with the subject about six feet from a blank wall to prevent a shadow on the background. Take two identical lamps, flash or photo flood; place one at the camera (either side); place the other on either side of the subject at a distance from him approximately half the distance between the camera and the subject. If the camera is eight feet from the subject, for example, the secondary lamp would be four feet from the subject, shining down on him from a 45 degree angle, like afternoon sunlight, to best bring out the contours of the face. The basic light at the camera should also be pointing down at a 45 degree angle on the subject. When you bring the light to bear on the subject's face with the angle, you will have the proper height for the light.

Backlighting for Variety

For variety, the secondary lamp can be placed obliquely behind the subject, but remember to have it shaded from the camera eye. Otherwise, you will find a halo on your finished print. If you use a light meter, be careful to shade the meter so that the back light does not hit it directly. You must measure the light reflected from your subject, always, and not allow any direct rays from a light or the sun to hit the "taking" face of the meter.

Simple as these rules are, they necessarily leave something to the imagination and judgment of the picture maker. Don't be timid about experimenting. That is where the fun comes in.

Picture of the Week

An unusually appealing child portrait, marred only by the object on the wall in the rear which blends somewhat confusingly with the silhouette of the hair. Taken with one No. 2 photo flood and daylight, this is a fine example of what you can do in your own home with simple equipment. Note how the highlight of the hair bow adds to the balance of the composition without detracting from the center of interest—the impudent face. There is good balance of lights and shadows here. Taken with a Rollei camera, using superpan press film with a 1/25 second exposure.

1. Some of my roll films have dark streaks along the edges that often run right into the pictures. What causes that?

ANSWER: These dark streaks, commonly referred to as "edge fog," are caused by not keeping the film wound tightly on the spool, or loading or unloading the films in strong light such as direct sunlight.

2. Do I need a tripod for snapshots with a small box camera around the home? A friend has advised me to get one for better results.

ANSWER: A tripod or another similar firm support is a necessity when taking time exposures under any circumstances. A tripod will hold your camera firm during the time exposure thus avoiding blurred pictures which you would get if you attempted a time exposure holding the camera in your hands.

3. Some of my enlargements have a "salt and pepper" appearance. The clerk in the drug store said that they are grainy. How can I avoid this or is that a fault of processing?

ANSWER: Graininess which is the result of clustering of the exposed metallic silver particles may be minimized by asking for fine grain development of the film. In general the use of ultra-speed films tend to produce a more grainy appearance than slower films such as panachrome.

Adler Will Open Playhouse Season

Molnar Comedy Chosen for First Vehicle; Opens Tuesday

LUTHER ADLER

Patrons of the Woodstock Playhouse, which opens on Tuesday, June 18, will find many new improvements in the theatre. The entire lobby has been redecorated, and will be used throughout the summer for exhibitions of paintings and sculpture, mainly by Woodstock artists. A new curtain has been installed, as well as new and elaborate lighting equipment and a public address system.

For its opening bill the Playhouse is presenting Ferenc Molnar's comedy "The Play the Thing," with the noted Broadway star, Luther Adler, in the leading role. The play was first performed in America by Holbrook Blinn, and it rocketed to immediate success in New York and on the road. Too daring to be filmed, it nevertheless became famous very quickly as one of the funniest plays ever written. It is now considered a classic high comedy of the modern theatre.

The Woodstock production will run for six nights, Tuesday through Sunday, closing on June 23. Meanwhile, the players are already at work on their second bill, the Pulitzer Prize play "Miss Lulu Bett," which will open on Tuesday, June 25 with Joanna Roos as the star.

An exhibition of paintings by Norbert Heermann, Woodstock artist, will be shown in the lobby throughout the run of "The Play the Thing" and "Miss Lulu Bett."

NEW FACES

New actors in lead roles come upon the national stage. The Kentucky-born Democrat, Frederick M. Vinson, leaves the post of Secretary of the Treasury to become Chief Justice of the United States. Reconversion Director John W. Snyder, St. Louis banker, succeeds him. Both are in their fifties. A Vermont Republican senator, Warren R. Austin, 68, follows Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., resigned, as American representative on the United Nations Security Council.

All have served in public office. All are known to American citizens. For them the new duties will mean new roles but a familiar setting. It is difficult to evaluate the responsibilities of one above the other, but perhaps Austin's job is fraught with the greatest difficulty, because he will deal directly with Russia's Gromyko. Austin's attitude to the Soviets was intimated in a recent commencement address he made before the Foreign Service Educational Foundation. In this he expressed sympathy for Russia's war sufferings, and said Russia could not be blamed for anxiety over this country's indifference to occupation duties as expressed in America's eagerness to demobilize.

A tremendous obligation rests on all three men: management of American judiciary and economics for two of them, perhaps the very peace of the world on the third. Here are three men to watch.

"There shall be showers of blessing," says the old hymn, but some of the recent deluges in this country seem to be overdoing the messianism.

Cars for sale often bear the sign "Better Used Cars." Some of those seen on the road should be labeled "Better If Not Used Cars."

RECORD-BREAKING KING

William Lyon Mackenzie King, the Canadian premier, has broken a record. He is now entering on his 20th year of service, and has finally passed the mark set by Sir John A. MacDonald, who was prime minister for 19 years and a little over at various periods between 1857 and 1891.

King's service is not consecutive either, so that he will never make the impressive record of long tenure which Sir Robert Walpole made by being prime minister of Great Britain for 20 years and 10 months from 1721 to 1742. King should pass Walpole's figure, however, within a year, and will then go down in history as the record-holder not only for Great Britain but for all her dominions. As this service included the period of World War II, King is not likely to be forgotten by future historians. He seems colorless to many Americans but he has been a hard-working public servant with a good deal of intelligence and good will. Relations between Canada and the United States have done well under his regime.

After all, it is sort of nice to get up in the morning and find that this crazy old world of ours is still here.

Every fatal city fire calls for better attention to fireproof building.

INSPIRATION

A 60-year-old Ohio woman, blind since she was six, has supported herself and her aged mother giving music lessons in local public schools, and writing for neighborhood newspapers. She does practically all the work in their home including baking and ironing. She belongs to clubs, directs the choir and teaches a Sunday school class in her church. She is a happy, social being, very grateful for the memory of those first seeing years. She attributes her success to an "inner vision" that she says all "sighted" people have, too, and to the fact that she always has tried "to adapt to life's emergencies."

Her courage, and above all, her cheerfulness make the troubles of other people seem as naught. No one can live without affecting to some degree the lives of others. Here's a woman who by shouldering the burden

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

CONSPIRACY OF WICKEDNESS

The Jackson-Black feud spotlights a conspiracy of wickedness to reduce American institutions to the will of a small, aggressive political group that, having achieved power by the accidents of 1932, devoted themselves to self-perpetuation in power. American political theory has acknowledged the two-party system in the organization of committees in both the Senate and the House of Representatives, in the laws requiring bi-partisan appointments to commissions, in the traditional bi-partisan appointments to the Supreme Court bench and in a thousand details of political action.

The New Dealers rejected that concept as they did the wisdom of old changes in the political complexion of the government. Very early in his career, Henry Wallace said that his party would remain in power 40 years which was more modest than Hitler's boast of a thousand years of Nazism. And while, at the time, men laughed at Henry, as they often do, the fact remains that the New Deal group has managed to be in power now for 13 years by devices so corruptive of the spirit of American institutions, so devoid of honesty of purpose and dignity of action that they have actually succeeded in reducing the stature of the constitutional agencies devised to safeguard the freedoms of the people by limiting the power of the Executive.

Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity and his brilliant use of the device of the emergency gave him an authority over Congress unequalled in our history. He developed what came to be known as "must" legislation—a mechanism for putting through the Congress bills not prepared by Congress but by his own bureaucrats at such a speed and in such profusion as to make due consideration and debate impossible. Congress, for years, came to be known as the President's rubber stamp.

This, by itself, reduced the stature of Congress in the eyes of the public. The New Dealers then utilized the smear. Motion pictures were prepared ridiculing members of Congress. Actors and vaudevillians were encouraged to poke fun at congressmen, reaching an apogee in the clowning of Zero Mostel, who mouthed sounds but not words in an initiative address of a representative of the people to the amusement of the multitude who did not recognize that they were laughing at their own political function.

In the ultimate object of substituting an intellectual elite bureaucracy for the chosen representatives of the people, the New Deal ultimately failed, thanks to the courage and patriotism of Southern Democrats and inspired Republicans who, composing their differences, stood together for constitutional government in the United States. When Mr. Roosevelt attempted to purge the members of his own party who, while not opposing his proposals, insisted upon the coequal rights of Congress, the people defeated the purge and the "Rubber Stamp" Congress ceased to be a political automaton.

Similarly, the New Dealers attempted to destroy the stature of the Supreme Court. The first step in this direction was the court-packing proposal in 1937. Public opinion met that challenge courageously. That was followed by the appointment to the court of insignificant and unfit men of whom Hugo Black was one. The court, under Mr. Roosevelt's appointments, was to have become a political instrument of the Executive, an agency of political action. No Republican, no conservative was appointed to the bench by Mr. Roosevelt, although American tradition requires a balance between the parties and among carrying points of view.

Theoretically this should have resulted in a court that was an appendage to the team of Corcoran and Cohen. Actually, as the judges mellowed and matured, some of them recognized the dignity of their positions and the inviolability of their oaths and the court fell into the traditional division between conservatives and radicals. Mr. Justice Frankfurter leading the conservatives, and Hugo Black leading the radicals.

A further device was employed to lessen the dignity of the court, namely, the employment of justices in administrative positions and for political action, a characteristic of the New Deal.

This conspiracy of wickedness is failing but the damage it has already done to American life is terrifying. The Jackson-Black feud gives the country an opportunity to ventilate a great evil.

REMOVING KIDNEY STONES

When there is a pain and soreness in region of kidneys and bladder and X-rays show presence of a stone or stones in the kidney or in tube (ureter) carrying urine from kidney to bladder the first thought of most patients is that operation to remove kidney is necessary. As a matter of fact operation is necessary to remove large stones as the stone cannot be dissolved safely and its removal by drinking large quantities of water is also impossible.

What many do not know is that small stones can be removed by means of the cystoscope (which allows the physician to see the stones) and by dilating or widening the ureter by means of metal or rubber dilators.

In the Journal of Urology, Dr. R. L. Dourmashkin reports a series of 1,550 cases of stones situated at various levels of the ureter and in central part of kidney which empties urine into ureter to be carried to the bladder. By the use of the cystoscope and metal dilators in 1,253 cases the stone was removed in 1,171 (93.5 per cent) without an instance of ruptured ureter or a single death. In cases where stones were divided into two groups: 689 with small stones less than 5 mm. in width and 861 with large stones, 5 mm. and more in width. In the small stone group the stones were passed in 92.7 per cent of the cases and in the large stone group in 85.9 per cent. Ample room for the downward passage of the stone was made by dilating the lower end of the ureter with metallic bougies (dilators) and by using rubber bags at the higher levels.

Despite the presence of a stone in the ureter in most cases urine passes into bladder without causing pain or soreness often for a considerable time. When pain and soreness occur the stone must be removed.

In the above series of cases treated by use of cystoscope and dilators (no surgical operation necessary) it was not necessary for the patients to go to bed, and no "force" was needed to remove the stones which would mean danger or injury to the ureter.

Remember, then, stones in ureter and kidney may often be removed without surgical operation.

One Thing I Don't Understand About This Outrage, Ivan-

The National Debt.

By CHARLES MOLONY

Washington—Don't figure on seeing the national debt paid off in full.

Chances of that happening in the lifetime of anyone old enough to read this are virtually zero, government men say. It would be a mammoth historical upset.

The debt has been reduced several billion dollars recently and it'll be reduced further in the next couple of months—but only out of unneeded cash the government got earlier by borrowing.

A Temporary Benefit

Unless the government's income and spending reverse their roles of recent years and start providing surpluses, debt reductions will stop soon with exhaustion of the unneeded borrowed funds. Then debt increases will start again.

Hopes are rising that the budget may be balanced and a surplus brought in during the fiscal year beginning next July 1. But President Truman has taken a cautious attitude about it.

He said tax receipts will be "substantially higher than estimated (last January)" during fiscal 1947, and reiterated that "we are on our way to a balanced budget."

Still a Big Deficit

But, bearing in mind possible expenditure increases from proposals such as those for housing subsidies, higher military pay and the like, the President didn't change his estimate that fiscal 1947 would end in a deficit of $4,347,000,000. (Difference between the total amount of money owed. Deficit is an excess of expenses over income during any one year. Debt builds up after one or more years of deficits.)

Just to get an idea on possibilities for wiping out the deficit, imagine for a moment that instead of a deficit, the year turned up a surplus of $4,347,000,000.

It would take more than 63 good years like that—which is into the next century—to pay off the debt.

Nothing like that has ever happened. Debts have always jumped in wartime and never have gone back to the prewar level.

Almost everybody thinks it would be a good thing to cut the debt back from its present figure of well over $270,000,000,000, but many think it would be unwise to wipe it out.

Some, especially private financial interests, contend that a debt is dangerous, in degree according to size—that it makes for unsoundness in the economy, undermines confidence, needed to achieve prosperity, and drains the public to meet interest payments.

Interest Is Big Load

Interest costs now run over $3,000,000,000 a year, and that's one expense that makes it tougher to balance the budget.

Some other financial students, including many government economists, insist that the debt, provided it isn't unreasonably or unmanageably large, isn't serious or even too important as long as there is a proportionately high and growing national income.

This view goes on the theory that the important thing is not so much what you owe but what income you get to pay it off with—a $100 debt isn't so tough on a man making $100 a week as on one making but $100 a month.

And, they contend, retirement of national debt on a large scale would bring about a number of circumstances that would result in reduction of national income at an even faster rate, so it might just bring on a depression that would be far worse than debt.

"At Century's Turn"

By R. L. VAN DEUSEN

The resignation of John C. Porter, general secretary, Chester R. Hall, boys' work director, and Frank "Pop" Hinds, physical director of the staff of the local Y.M.C.A., came as a surprise to the city at large in August, 1929.

All three men had been active in the association affairs for several years. Under the administration of Mr. Porter as secretary, the "Y's" Men's Club, which was active for years, was organized, as well as the "Y" camp at Glenierie.

Mr. Hall as boys' work director, had built up a large boys' department, while "Pop" Hinds was the man who developed one of the finest basketball teams ever to wear the "Y" emblem.

In September, 1929, the board of directors of the "Y" appointed Clarence S. Schoonmaker as general secretary to succeed Mr. Porter.

Mr. Schoonmaker as a youth was an active member of the local association, and took up "Y" activities as his life work. His first "Y" job was at the Maplewood branch of the "Y" at Rochester.

At the time he was called to the Kingston "Y" he was serving as general secretary of the Gloversville "Y."

Turning from "Y" to industrial affairs on August 17, 1929, C. Edward Post died here. For a number of years, before he retired, he successfully operated the Post bakery on Broadway, opposite Franklin street.

The bakery was noted for the high quality of its products. I recall that at one time it was operated by the late Sherman Higgins, who was also active in Republican politics, serving as a member of the Common Council.

Michael J. White, a retired member of the Kingston police force, died on August 8, 1929, in his home on Wurts street. Older readers will recall the years he was active as a policeman.

Another well known man who died on August 28, 1929, was John A. Recktenwald in his home on Ravine street. Older readers will recall when he and his brother, Jacob J. Recktenwald, under the firm name of Recktenwald Brothers, operated a highly successful grocery store on lower Broadway.

William Van Bramer, who before he retired, operated the Van Bramer Fish Market on the Strand, died on August 29, 1929. Since his death the business has been carried on by his son, Vincent Van Bramer. The business was first established by the grandfather of the present proprietor.

R. Grant Johnston, a manufacturing engineer, died in August, 1929, purchased the three story brick building at 36 Ferry street, which he is still using in his business in manufacturing awnings.

The building for years was used as a wholesale flour and feed store by B. Morse Tremper, and later as a dress factory by the late Mayor Morris Block. For some years before it was bought by Mr. Johnston it housed the office of the old Central Hudson Steamboat Co.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago
June 15, 1926—Kingston Hospital reached financial goal of $300,000 in campaign to raise funds to erect new building to replace one damaged by fire.

Ella P. Streett died in High Woods.

Ulster County Musical Association was incorporated.

June 15, 1936—Miss Hannah M. Styles died in her home on Prospect street.

Death of Miss Elizabeth DePew of High Falls.

Miss Hannah Elizabeth Brown died in Sleighsbrough.

Death of Mrs. Henry E. Myers in her home in Port Jervis.

RENTAL HOUSES FOR VETERANS

The O.P.A. boa constrictor will writhe when it hears this: Private money in Altadena, Calif., is daring to splurge in rental housing. Not houses for sale at prices inflated by our present economy of scarcity, but houses built only for rent.

An Altadena bank is building a $5,000,000 rental project without a cent of subsidy money and expects to make it pay. The bankers say this is the only thing of its kind in the United States but they predict it will be duplicated in coming months all over the country. They say it will yield satisfactory long term dividends and is the answer to the veterans housing problem.

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Altadena is the builder, calling its project Avalon Village. The village consists of 250 four-family units, 500 single and 500 double apartments. Completely furnished, these apartments will rent at prices most veterans can pay: singles at $45 a month, doubles at $50. Applications will be taken beginning July 1 and veterans in the vicinity of the village—which is strategically located between Los Angeles and the Wilmington-San Pedro shipping and industrial districts—are practically getting in line now. They hope to move in before September.

Construction is conventional stucco, with hardwood floors and shingle roofs. The single apartment consists of a living room with a Murphy bed and studio couch, a dinette, kitchen, large dressing room, bath, ample closet space. The double adds a bedroom and closet space. Laundry rooms, with Bendix washers, are provided for community use; a garage with storage space is provided for each apartment. The village circles a 19-acre play park planned and equipped for both children and their elders.

It's the multi-unit design, economizing in land, materials and labor, which brings the cost down to a workable figure. Mr. F. D. Tilton, the bank's president, told me, average cost of these units is $4,800 to $5,000, he said, as compared with $7,500 or $8,000 for a comparable house detached and on a full lot.

Dunton, a "hard" wiry veteran of World War I, is making a crusade out of the project, thumping his nose at the bureaucrats. "We can't want any government money," he snorted. "We just want to be let alone. We'll do our part in housing veterans on our own money."

Dunton pointed to surveys which showed that eighty per cent of exservicemen questioned did not want to buy a home now, believing prices inflated. He himself says only a small per cent of veterans can afford to pay $8,000 or $10,000 for a home, then furnish the home. "If veterans are going to be decently housed we will have to build rental accommodations for them."

You can hardly find a house in this metropolitan area priced low enough to qualify for a GI loan. I know because two of my own sons have been GI house hunters for several days. Avalon Village is Dunton's answer.

Dunton is so fed up with O.P.A. and other New Deal bureaus and their suppression of legitimate business he has pounced on the Avalon Village project as a vehicle for advertising enterprise. I especially relish this, myself. I have repeatedly urged business men to plug for our enterprise system in their advertising copy—just as many a government printing office blurb plugs for socialism.

One of Dunton's advertising folders swaggers: "Without benefit of federal or any other kind of subsidies, this substantial rental development, privately constructed by and for veterans, is truly convincing evidence of initiative that can be exercised nowhere else in this ism-infected world. Unhindered by bureaucratic red tape and political scuttles, and under the traditional American system of free enterprise, an entire village covering eighty acres is about to become a reality."

That kind of talk harks back to the days when private money built skyscrapers and strong men would have fainted if Uncle Sam had started shoveling century notes at them to get them to put up rent houses.

The Avalon project just shows the infinite variety of which the enterprise system is capable always finding a way to meet an emergency, always responding in an effort to satisfy human wants, which leads to better living standards as surely as human beings always want better standards. Wherever there's a need the great old system of individual initiative, paying any man for a worthy contribution, will find a way to supply that need.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

(For Hal Boyle)

Tokyo, June 15 (AP)—A 30-year-old woman wearing traditional Japanese clothes—and an accidental air of assurance to match—has moved in as queen of Tokyo's black market.

Yoshiko Matsuda claims, the high office in the underworld by right of succession. An ex-member of her husband's mob rubbed him out and made her a widow Monday.

The defunct husband, Giichi Matsuda, was the boss of Tokyo's underworld up until the time he announced that henceforth the black market would be "legitimate, ethical and business-like."

Those who didn't want to live under his new Ukaseo or honor among thieves could go back to honest toil, he said—in effect.

One, however, forthrightly decided that bumping off the king of the black market could be counted as an honest day's toil.

The killing caused great consternation in Matsuda's umbrageous empire, whose main place of business is right out in front of Shimbashi railway station in downtown Tokyo.

One of the aploomb was quickly restored, however, among Tokyo's estimated 5,000 black marketers who had banded together as an association under the benign patronage of Matsuda.

They voted to make Mrs. Matsuda the new ruler of the association and she accepted with alacrity.

In an interview in the room where the last rites were performed for her husband, Mrs. Matsuda—flanked by flowers and funeral wreaths—declared: "I will try to do what my husband failed to do."

Eventually, she said, the black market could go legitimate buying and selling at equitable prices.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Matsuda added with confidence, she would handle both her "association" members and rival racketeers, even if she was the first female ruler Tokyo's underworld ever had.

Meanwhile, also, the 5,000 members will keep right on paying her a total of 1,900 yen ($100) daily for rental, cleaning, and protection—that is to say, "vigilance" service.

"I'll get along," said the queen.

Troops Guard Poles

To guarantee free elections to the country, General Carlos von der Becke, commander-in-chief of the Argentine Army, recently had some selected troops through an accelerated military training program, Buenos Aires reports. In addition to the usual instruction in those "free election" guardians had special training in the use of the bayonet and rifle butt. Other instructions dealt with Combat Shooting, Close Order and General Theoretical Knowledge.

Woolen Goods Sought

Australia is missing its greatest chance to build up a large export trade in woolen goods, because of manpower shortages, Sydney reports. Orders from America for woolen textiles have been pouring in since the U. S. forces returned home and Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Turkey want woolens, but most orders cannot be filled because of shortages of production. Goods of the finest and softer types are most in demand.

Inventors Do Their Bit For Streamlined Farming

row crops grown for silage at 10 to 18 tons an hour, spewing it into a wagon.

In a world of motors, old do have not been forgotten. With an electric welding outfit now a production a farmer can build a worn horseshoes instead of putting on new ones so often.

Then there's the poultry farmer. A thingumbob called a deflectorer plucks a chicken—including rubber fingers mounted on a revolving rotary drum do the job.

Building, too, are new and different. A large Quonset hut placed on an eight-foot concrete of low tide base ends up as a portable store dairy barn. Prefabricated farm houses come with built-in furniture and refrigeration. Water, heating and cooking equipment.

There's a junior-size tractor with 14 different tools to go with it, for use on 40-acre farms. Balers come in several varieties. One is self-powered, and works from a power takeoff and drives three-man pickup outfit that takes one to four tons an hour.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Dough Nut Touch—Evanston, Ill., June 15 (AP)—The thieves who have been stealing a food shop's doughnuts for the past two weeks escaped a policeman by fleeing with their loot into the nearest trees.

William Rogers, a doughnut maker, called police after a food shop complained someone had been breaking into the cardboard boxes of doughnuts he delivered to its doorway, early each morning.

Patrolman William Ianson stood guard, but before he could intervene, four squirrels popped open one of the boxes and one made off with a fat cruller.

Eye Opening Find—New Uim, Minn., June 15 (AP)—For a long time farmer Mike Hegler had believed that search for his spectacles, lost last fall while haying, would be like looking for a needle in a haystack.

Recently Hegler had his glasses returned to him. His sons had found them in a load of hay they hauled to the barn from a haystack.

Frank Ad—Chicago, June 15 (AP)—Mrs. Wilson's Smith's "for rent" advertisement in a newspaper read: "Dark, dirty four-room apartment, x x x shabby furn."

She explained: "I don't want people to bother coming unless they know what it is. We can't get decorators and even if we could they'd want too much money to fix up the place."

Recs Seek Third Straight Against Bertelli's Club Tonight; Neff Named to Face Poughkeepsie Here Sunday Afternoon

Fitzgerald After His 3rd Victory; Games Starts at 9

Former Notre Dame Ace to Start in Center; Interest in Contest Indicates Big Crowd

With good weather promised by the weatherman, officials of the Kingston Recreation anticipate another great crowd at municipal stadium tonight when the Recs play host to Angelo Bertelli and his crack Springfield Brownies. Game time is set for 9 o'clock.

Fitzgerald to Pitch
Dick Fitzgerald, the former Fordham University athlete, has been named by Manager Joe Hoffman to go out after his third straight win of the year tonight. Dick has thrown successive wins over the Chance Voughts and the New York Cubans and at this writing appears to be the club's number one moundman.

In his complete 13 innings on the mound to date, Fitzgerald has given up nine base hits, has walked only two batters and has struck out eight. Fitzgerald's last win was in that winning brawl with the New York Cubans last Saturday night.

The Recreation's riding on a two game winning streak, will be out after number three in a row tonight and their fourth in five starts.

Led by the great Notre Dame football star, Angelo Bertelli, the Springfield club is expected to give the local team plenty of action tonight before 11 o'clock rolls around. The entire visiting team is built around youth and is said to be one of the most promising road teams this season.

The Springfield first includes Bettis Bessone at first. Bessone is a former Illinois University baseball and hockey star. He was with Springfield of the Eastern League and during the winter months has seen action with Providence of the Can-Am League.

Frosh Lizak, the leading Triple A hitter with Springfield where he clubbed a .431 average, is listed for second base while Tony Kang, All-Navy team in England during 1943 and 1944 is at third. Joe Kuncy, formerly with the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast League two years ago, will play short.

Bertelli, who has thrilled the nation's football fans for many years, is said to be well adapted and plays the great national pastime with all the spirit and knowledge that has earmarked his gridiron play. Bertelli will be in center-field tonight. The other outfielders are Paul Lussier in left and Danny Sullivan in right. Lussier gained most of his honors while playing with the 103rd Engineers in service while Sullivan gained his spurs with Springfield where he was the all-utility outfielder last year.

The battery includes a number of promising players who are said to be great prospects for future years in the big leagues. Matty Ryan and Hal Symnack share the catching duties. Ryan played in the Honolulu Service World Series in 1945 while Symnack has been one of the brightest young stars in the Bay-State area for the last five years.

With Bob Davis and Joe Ziemiński listed as starting hurlers, the Brownies will have plenty to throw at the Recs tonight. Davis, formerly pitched with Flumina of the Eastern League and has already flipped a no-hitter this season. Ziemiński, according to Andy Murphy, local athlete, is one particular player to watch for future developments. Murphy and Ziemiński met on Guam in the Marianas and Andy speaks well of his chances. Ziemiński is a high school sensation and pitched with a service team on Guam.

Manager Hoffman is expected to stand pat on his lineup for tonight although Lou Motzer may

Ferraro Blasts 742 Triple In Mixed Bowling Circuit

'Ace' Cracks 238, 246 and 258 to Elevate Police Dogs into First Place

Johnny Ferraro, Kingston's ace bowler and regarded by many as the number one kegler of the Hudson Valley, showed up at his Central Rec drives this week with a new ball and proceeded to give it a great workout. After three games in the Mixed League observers were quick to realize that Ferraro and the new ball were going to get along very well in the months to come.

Ferraro's sensational bowling of 238, 246 and 258 for a sizzling 742 triple pushed the Police Dogs into first place as they took all three games from the Scotties, league leaders until Ferraro showed up.

The "Ace" really brandished a great night by polishing the maples with 27 strikes, 13 of them in a row. Six of those strikes came in his last part of the first game and the final seven in the second game opening.

Ferraro and Altmore combined to swing the axe on the Scotties. White Ferraro was polishing that hefty 742 triple Altmore cracked out a 555 series on 178, 146 and 231. Grace Sabo and Jim Daniels high for the losers with 513 and 507. Daniels posted a 222 single for the Scotties.

The Great Danes worked themselves into second place in the league standings by registering a clean sweep from the Bull Dogs. Chris Robinson's 517 series was high for the winners while Rose Schatzel came through with a cool 588, paced by a 234 solo, for the losing club.

Johnny Sangi's Whippets continued to find the range and came off with a double victory over the Cocker Spaniels. Sangi sparked his teammates with a 544 while Pete Ginder had 556 for the Spaniels. Ginder's 201 single was high in the match.

The Greyhounds moved into third spot with two wins over the Terriers behind Evelyn Moore's 509 triple. Don Sicker was high for the Terriers with 466 and a 204 single.

The standings to date:

Police Dogs 11 4 .733
Great Danes 10 5 .667
Greyhounds 9 6 .600

Better Golf

By SAM SNEAD

6. The place that leverage has in the golf swing isn't fully realized by many high-handicap golfers. You can make an interesting experiment if you'll tie a small weight in a handkerchief, as pictured, and swing it back and forth solely by wrist action. Although your handkerchief lacks all the rigidity of the shaft of the club you'll observe that the weight being at the end, just as a clubhead is at the end of the shaft, the handkerchief remains straight but the wrist swing leads the lash of the weight into the ball. And that the weight is ahead of the hand at the imaginary impact. The point of this experiment is to impress upon you that if you swing properly down the weight of the clubhead itself will augment the throw of the wrists at the bottom of the swing. Many players do not realize the importance to distance and rhythm of the wrist throw. They feel that the wrists are weak as compared with the other muscles swinging in a club. That is true but the wrist throw is just so much added momentum way out at the end of the shaft and adds surprisingly to yardage when you get the wrist throw in there properly.

Columbia to End Experiment School

New York, June 15 (AP)—Columbia University's widely known experimental school, Horace Mann-Lincoln, will be liquidated in June, 1948, the board of trustees announced yesterday.

The board acted on recommendation of the teachers college in announcing its decision to concentrate on experiments in the public schools rather than private tuition schools.

A special committee report noted the nationwide trend toward increased enrollment in public high schools, jumping from approximately 2,000,000 in 1919-20 to 6,713,913 in 1940-41.

"Horace Mann-Lincoln School has continued to draw its students from a favored group," the report said. "Parents are more well-to-do than the average and more than half the fathers belong to the professional classes. Horace Mann-Lincoln does not represent the whole."

The income from a $3,000,000 fund established in 1930-31 for educational experiments will be used after June 30, 1948, in broader fields, the trustees said.

U. S. Vets Bureau Will Have Man in City to Give Aid

Owing to an increased demand for information on veterans benefits and services in Kingston and surrounding area, John A. Porter has been assigned by the United States Veterans Administration to serve as a contact representative here. Charles A. Adams, manager of the Albany Regional Office of the United States Veterans Administration announced today.

Porter will be temporarily located at the United States Employment Service offices at 243 Fair street. His office hours will be from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. every day except Saturday when he will be on itinerant service.

"Our present plans call for keeping Mr. Porter in Kingston, where there seems to be a heavy demand by veterans for information on the services of the U. S. Veterans Administration," Mr. Adams said. "However if the demand warrants a full time itinerant service to the outlying points around Kingston we are prepared to render this service to the veteran."

As a contact representative, Porter has the latest information on such important veterans matters as insurance, claims, pensions, hospitalization, education, vocational rehabilitation. He is authorized to help veterans process the necessary forms for educational and vocational rehabilitation, pension, claims, insurance, appeals for reconsideration of disability ratings, and death benefits for widows, children, and dependents of World War 1 and 2. In addition his office is in a position to make applications for admittance into hospitals, domiciliary care, and out-patient treatment.

Production Is Predicted
Albany, N. Y., June 15 (AP)—The State Agriculture Department predicts winter wheat production of about 4,833,000 bushels in New York state this year, representing a 50 per cent drop from 1945. The department yesterday attributed the sharp decrease to a reduction in acreage forced by a wet sowing season and to lower yield prospects this summer.

P.S.C. Authorizes Public Bids on 30-Year Flotation

New York, June 15 (AP)—The Public Service Commission announced today it had authorized the Yonkers Electric Light and Power Company to invite public bids on or before July 1 upon an issue of $9,000,000 thirty-year debentures.

Proceeds, together with other company funds, are to be used to refund $9,515,000 of outstanding debentures which are to mature in 1950.

The securities to be refunded bear interest of three and one-half per cent with the proposed new debentures limited to an interest rate not to exceed two and three-quarters per cent, the commission said.

E. A. Bamman, hearing examiner of the commission, said in a report that the interest saving to result from the refinancing would range from approximately $43,000 to $56,000 annually.

The Yonkers company is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc.

The Commission, by resolution, stipulated that the company should set aside $2,900,000 out of surplus in a special account for elimination of any deficiency in the depreciation reserve as a condition to consenting to the refunding operation.

No Frivolous Messages From Bikini-Bound Ship

Aboard the U.S.S. Appalachian, June 15 (AP)—There will be no frivolous personal messages sent by the 169 writers aboard this press ship bound for Bikini and the historic atomic bomb tests.

The navy's anti-frivolity rule has several reasons, such as heavily-loaded transmission facilities and restrictions on the type of commercial messages that may be sent on navy facilities.

On the first day, when writers were informed they could send personal messages, a number were cancelled under the rules.

One such was this: "Now two days at sea. Still love you. This expedition has 42,000 men and no women."

But the navy won't ban such messages as this: "Send pair of shoes. Don't forget to pay taxes."

Adulter Presides At Funeral Rites; Angle Is Checked

Bangkok, Siam, June 15 (AP)—King Phumiphon Aduldet presided today over the traditional seventh day funeral rites for his brother, Ananda Mahidol, while police officials further sought to check whispers circulating in the capital concerning the late monarch's death last Sunday.

Yellow-robed priests intoned ancient Buddhist verses beside a golden urn bearing the remains of their ill-fated monarch, while members of the royal family and white-uniformed government officials attended with traditional gifts of food and flowers.

New information concerning the royal tragedy came to light during the funeral rites.

Police Chief Ramindra told parliament that the fatal bullet pierced the King's head and pillow. It was the first disclosure that Ananda was reclining at the time of his death.

Officials said a forthcoming report would "settle the case once and for all." Officials who examined the body on the day the death occurred, called the affair accidental.

Police Chief Ramindra said that tests of a .45 caliber Colt automatic on a pig's head revealed no powder burns from distances of six inches or more, which he declared corroborated the accident theory.
